

Dear Dallas SWE members and friends,

Dallas SWE encourages young women to pursue mathematics, sciences and engineering programs and to get engaged early in the technical fields. To recognize women early on and motivate them to stay and continually learn, Dallas SWE is offering scholarships and certificates.

Applications are now being accepted for the Society of Women Engineers Certificate and Scholarship programs. Some of the program highlights are below. We encourage you to visit our website www.dallaswe.org for detailed information about the organization and visit this link to obtain Scholarship and Certification information and forms.

- SWE High School SCHOLARSHIP:
 - Scholarship is awarded to female high school seniors who will be majoring in engineering. Applications must be postmarked by April 15th. Scholarships vary from $500 to $1000.

- SWE Annie Colaco SCHOLARSHIP:
 - Scholarship is awarded to SWE collegiate section members who have demonstrated leadership skills by organizing or leading activities for their section that will be sustained after their graduation. Applications must be postmarked by April 30th.
 - Scholarships provide $100 to a student leader and $150 to the SWE section where the student serves.
 - The scholarship is named in honor of Annie Colaço (1899-1991), the grandmother of SWE lifetime member Nandika D'Souza. Annie Colaço epitomized selfless service and lifelong learning, which is reflected in the SWE mission.

- CERTIFICATE PROGRAM:
 - Certificate candidates should excel in science and mathematics with distinction or some engineering related activity, such as a science fair project or a technical paper competition. Nominated students also should be active citizens in their school and community. We hope that this program will encourage the recipients to consider a future engineering career.
 - High School Certificate of Merit Award Program:
This program is for High Schools in the Dallas area / Region 10 schools to honor young females in grades 9-12.
 - Middle (Jr. High) School Certificate of Achievement Award Program: This program is for Jr. High Schools in the Dallas area/Region 10 schools to honor females in grades 7-9.

Thank you for your cooperation. We look forward to recognizing your talented students!

Sincerely,
Dallas SWE Outreach Awards Committee
